What are your Training Needs? Help the University of Florida identify priorities for future courses

12 September 2024

Training is critical to retain staff, improve productivity, and consistently produce excellent crops. The University of Florida IFAS is expanding its award-winning Greenhouse Training Online courses thanks to a grant from the American Floral Endowment and a donation from Ken and Deena Altman.

Fill out this English/Spanish online survey about your training priorities to help guide which new English/Spanish modules are developed. And get a 25% discount on the remaining 2024 courses as a reward!

No matter what role you play in your company, if you are working with plant production we need your input. That includes owners through to watering staff and allied salespeople.

The survey takes an average of 15 minutes to complete and is completely anonymous according to UF IFAS guidelines. If you have any questions, please contact us at greenhousetraining@ifas.ufl.edu.
